This talk will provide an overview of the emergence of the social media use by patients, and its impact on hospital communications and patient experience. Watch out! When the past comes up to haunt the present. How to Stop Smoking, Now! Introduction: The proposition of this paper is that there is a significant problem in physician-patient communication. When it comes to finding the right doctor to meet your needs, there are many important decisions to be made. Researchers at Pennsylvania State University assessed over thousand posts on four popular social media platforms to see what people had to say about doctors. They looked at posts from patients, family members and friends who were discussing a doctor’s performance, office hours, prescriptions and more. The people they surveyed posted more than 37 million comments in all, with more than 7 million focused on healthcare providers. Here are five of the most revealing trends, ranked by number of comments: Good Doctor Most comments were positive, which helps to build trust and provide reassurance for those seeking a doctor 82157476af
